Quality and Tradition

To venture the seas looking for quality, safety, reliability, and a trustworthy boat, Cantiere del Pardo has been responding to these key demands since 1973, with experience, skills, and innovation. Even today, it is people and their professionalism that are at the heart of achieving these objectives. Experts that combine construction processes with meticulous craftsmanship, and as a result, define the standards in the nautical sector every day. The skills inherited from a sector with a strong artisan background, together with the know-how handed down from generation to generation allow us to achieve our ambition: to continue producing safe, fascinating, and functional boats with a strong and recognizable Italian design. Boats designed for those who have an identity we know well, that of our yacht owners.

Service Excellence

We accompany our customers on a 360° transparent journey, from the selection to the customisation of their boats. We form an ever-expanding international network of business partners that can be relied on at all times. From dockside services to offshore navigation, we take care of our yacht owners because we consider them part of a family, part of a community, made up of discussions, idea sharing, and event organisation. We aim to provide consistently excellent services to our customers, in which Cantiere del Pardo is and will always be the signature and guarantor.

Sustainability

Our goal is to establish perfect harmony with the environment in which our boats sail. For this reason, the priority of Cantiere del Pardo follows a constant strategy of reducing materials with a negative impact on ecosustainable construction processes, together with accurate control of supply chains and suppliers.

Our first responsibility, as people and as a company, is the full awareness that our business is closely linked to the marine ecosystem in which allows us to pursue our passions every day.

Innovation

Innovation is part of our actions and design approach. It is our professional DNA, the main driver that guides all the essential values of Cantiere del Pardo, allowing them to evolve always benefiting our customers. However, it is also a mindset linked to our daily performance. We are innovative as individuals, as a group of people, and as a company. We are also the innovation found onboard our products because our owners are the strongest incentive that motivates us to continuously strive to do better. In a virtuous cycle that produces quality, sustainably conscious choices, and excellent services.

Timeline

1973

The shipyard started in 1973 with Grand Soleil, producing high quality sailing boats. Its first model ever was the Grand Soleil 34 Finot, many other models followed.

1990

Cantiere del Pardo has a complete range of models ranging from GS 343 to GS 52 and the "German Freers" era opens, which designs the most iconic models of all time (GS 42 / GS 45 / GS 52) nicknamed "Spaghetti Swan" because of their clear resemblance to the cousins of the well-known Swedish shipyard. Distinguishing a Swan 53 from a GS 52 was really very difficult.

1977

Cantiere del Pardo entrusted Cino Ricci to produce a prototype of GS 34, a yacht to participate in important regattas, by 1982 more than 200 samples of the GS 34 were in production. From here onwards the production of other models started to take place and a real Grand Soleil product 'range' emerges, including GS 35, GS 41, and then the legendary GS 39 and the line of boats designed by Alain Jezequel GS 35/343/39/46).

2020

By this time there is a real "generational leap" and the shipyard presents the GS 40 by Paperini (Duck design) which marks a clear discontinuity with the past regarding the hull lines, in fact, the typical bow thrusts are missing and the inclinations of the transom typical of the classic line deriving from the old "for" hulls and we begin to see the modern hulls with vertical bow and pope. The GS 40 is a great success because of its dual purpose, it can win regattas (IMS) and allows owners to enjoy comfortable summer sailing, a decidedly modern concept that shipyards still pursue today.

Timeline

2016

Motor boating made it to the shipyard in 2017, when Pardo Yachts joined the family. The first model in the walkaround range was the Pardo 43.

2021/2023

Following the success of the open walkaround range, Pardo Yachts launches a new challenge on the market revolutionising the concept of long-range navigation: the Pardo Endurance 60. In 2022, in their attempt to always expand their product offering, Pardo GT52 starts off the brand new GT range. The year 2023 marks the expansion of the fleet with the new Pardo GT75 and a new Pardo Endurance: the E72.

What happens in the yard, stays in the yard.

The yard is where the magic happens. Since 1973, when it was founded, Cantiere del Pardo has produced more than 5000 boats. It occupies a covered 40.000 square meters surface and is split into three macro-departments: millwork, using cutting-edge technologies and processes; carpentry, based on tradition and the manual skills of its work force; and assembly, where everything is put together carefully up to final testing in the large test tank.

M50 127

The yard

Composite & Frame

The yard uses cutting-edge production processes and best materials found in the market today for the construction of the Grand Soleil Performance and Long Cruise yachts.

The structure (frame) is made of Carbon & GRP composite reinforcements, glued and internally laminated to the hull to support areas of high loads such as keel, shrouds and mast, making the integrity of the entire craft extremely secure.

The yard

Exquisite Craftmanship

The intimate and timeless elegance and the personality of each individual piece, are the fruit of the craftsman's skill and a design that enhances hand-crafted workmanship even in the most modern forms.

The Grand Soleil yachts stand out for their wood quality and finish. The yard know-how comes from way back, taking advantage from a long tradition of Italian furniture craftsmen. This expertise, perfected through time, continues to be passed down by master craftsmen from generation to generation. Today, as in the past, this heritage of knowledge and skill is captured within each piece of Grand Soleil yachts.

The yard

Bulkheads & Structure

All the bulkheads on board are laminated to the hull and bonded to the ceiling pockets. In some models the main bulkhead is made in composite material.

The yard

Teak deck & union

High quality 9mm teak wood using vacuum bagging methods to apply the teak decks to eliminate screws and plugs.

The deck is superimposed on the hull and glued with structural adhesive internally and then laminated.

Also the additional possibility to use synthetic teak to reduce the environmental impact of deforestation.

The yard

Going under, the tank test

Water tank testing, all parts such as engine and thrusters are tested in the water tank to ensure functionality and that the boat is watertight using high pressure water jets.

The yard

Development & Research

Each stage is managed and controlled by a large internal technical office dedicated to achieving the best possible quality and reliability.

The after sale team has the best understanding of the technical specifications and requirements of any Grand Soleil or Pardo Yachts whatever the age or conditions are, anywhere in the world. Cantiere del Pardo can also rely on dedicated service yards in Italy, as well as a network of 25 countries with authorized service centers around the world.
